1	Mostly, yes. There were a couple of instances in which we didn't seem to know exactly what happened.	4/10/2015 9:29 AM
2	For the most part, yes. Occasionally, an item will be taken back to another constituent group for review and it is somewhat unclear as to the process of what happens after that in terms of time lines and subsequent action. Clearly it cannot be a process that becomes so circular in nature that things go back and forth without being resolved in a timely manner, but I can say for a fact that there is some confusion and possible misconception as to how this process is supposed to work.	4/10/2015 9:02 AM

1	Carol does a good job running the meetings.	4/10/2015 1:31 PM
2	We went off on tangents occasionally, but the discussion was generally helpful.	4/10/2015 9:29 AM
3	The meetings were efficient, the comments afterwards regarding what is/was going on where not.	4/10/2015 8:56 AM
4	This council has been chaired very effectively.	3/28/2015 2:17 AM

1	The full-time faculty hiring committee has primacy in recommending priorities for faculty hires. A second dean generated list is unacceptable, and represents an attempt to circumvent the shared governance model, and usurp the authority of the full-time faculty hiring committee.	3/f b/f 0hu hh/f u ^A

1	There is one in particular that has not attended this year. All others seem to be consistent.	4/10/2015 1:34 PM
2	Attendance was pretty good overall, but there were some cases (the HCFA president, for example) where the individual never attended. That was a problem.	4/10/2015 10:17 AM
3	Overall, there is consistency. Busy schedules for everyone makes it challenging at times but I do feel that there is a strong commitment overall by the members to attend.	4/10/2015 9:09 AM

1	I cannot say I strongly agree because sometimes it feels like we are rushed if there is a long agenda with many items to get through.	4/10/2015 9:09 AM
